

Ohio Administrative Code

Rule 109:2-6-07 Notebook and eligibility requirements for the final examination.

Effective: July 7, 2002

(A) Each criminal investigator in the basic course shall maintain, as one of the requirements for certification, an adequate notebook during the course and shall submit such notebook to the commander for inspection. The notebook shall contain appropriate entries of material covered during the classroom sessions in the basic course. Among the factors to be evaluated in the notebook are: sufficiency of course content, organization, appropriateness of material, regularity of entries, neatness, accuracy and legibility. The notebook will be evaluated by the school commander as either satisfactory or unsatisfactory. Any representative of the commission may inspect a student notebook upon request.

(B) No person shall participate in the final written examination who has been evaluated as unsatisfactory for units of instruction in emergency aid, firearms and defensive tactics, the student notebook or any other area designated by the Ohio general assembly or the commission.
