

Ohio Administrative Code Rule 4117-1-10 Depositions and discovery.

Effective: January 2, 2005

(A) Upon application and for good cause shown, to preserve testimony in a pending case, the board, a board member, or an administrative law judge assigned to conduct the hearing may direct that the testimony of any person, including a party, be taken by deposition.

(B) At hearings other than fact-finding or conciliation hearings, discovery may be permitted by deposition or interrogatory only at the discretion of the board or board member or administrative law judge assigned to hear the case. Timelines will be established by the board, board member, or administrative law judge.
