(B) Upon referral, a self-insuring employer will determine whether the injured worker is eligible and feasible for vocational rehabilitation services using the criteria set forth in rule 4123-18-03 of the Administrative Code. If it is determined that the injured worker is eligible and feasible for vocational rehabilitation services, the self-insuring employer shall provide vocational rehabilitation case management services equal to or greater in quality and content than the services administered by the bureau and managed by the MCOs, utilizing the services of a provider who meets the minimum credentialing criteria set forth in rule 4123-6-02.2 of the Administrative Code. Such inspections and reviews will be conducted upon receipt of evidence indicating that a self-insuring employer's vocational rehabilitation services are of a lesser quality than the services administered by the bureau and managed by the MCOs.

(D) The bureau may direct complaints of sub-standard vocational rehabilitation programs to the bureau's self-insured department for review.
