Rule 4146-25-04 Disposition of an application for appeal in a labor dispute case.

Effective: August 17, 2015

Upon receipt of an application for appeal from the director's hearing officer in a labor dispute case, the review commission shall review the decision of the hearing officer and the full record of the case, including the transcript of the hearing. This review shall be completed within fourteen days after receipt of the director's decision or the receipt of the record, whichever is later. After review, the commission shall dispose of the application as follows:

(A) The commission may disallow the application without further hearing. The disallowance is an affirmation of the director's decision.

(B) The commission may allow the application and schedule a further hearing.

(C) If the application is allowed and further hearing granted, the commission shall make the director's record a part of the commission's record and consider that record in arriving at a decision, affirming, reversing or modifying the director's decision.

(D) The review commission shall send a copy of its decision to all interested parties as follows:

(1) Where the application is disallowed, notice shall be sent by electronic means or mailed within fourteen days after the commission makes the decision to disallow.

(2) Where the application is allowed and a hearing held, a decision shall be sent by electronic means or mailed within fourteen days after the hearing.

(3) The time limits to review an application or send or mail a decision may be extended by agreement of all interested parties or for good cause established by the commission.
