

Ohio Administrative Code

Rule 4758-13-05 Lapsed license or certificate and renewals.

Effective: July 3, 2023

(A) A license or certificate that has not been properly renewed lapses on its expiration date.

(B) Except as otherwise stated in this paragraph, credential holders may renew a license or certificate that has lapsed if the credential holder applies for renewal no later than one year after the license or certificate has lapsed.

(1) The RA certification is not renewable. A RA certification is not eligible for reapplication.

(2) In order to be issued a two year, renewable CDCA certification a credential holder whose CDCA preliminary certification has lapsed shall meet the requirements in paragraph (D) of rule 4758-5-01 of the Administrative Code not later than one year after the CDCA preliminary certification lapses. A credential holder whose CDCA certification is lapsed beyond one year shall be required to reapply for a CDCA preliminary certification and meet all requirements.

(3) Military personnel who have been active within the prior six consecutive months, or their spouses may renew a certification or license without a late fee penalty if the credential was not renewed due to the deployment for more than one-half of the days during the renewal period.

(C) An individual shall not be required to take an examination as a condition of renewal of a lapsed credential, if it is renewed within one year of the date in which it lapsed.

(D) All licenses or certificates are the property of the board and shall be surrendered by the chemical dependency counselor or prevention specialist/consultant upon request by the board.
