

3364-1-12.2 Relationship of the UTH board to academic programs of health sciences colleges.

UTCOM&LS, the college of nursing, the college of pharmacy and pharmaceutical sciences, and the college of health and human services (collectively, the “health sciences colleges”) of the university carry out a significant portion of their educational and research activity in facilities of UTH. The university board of trustees shall have exclusive governing authority over the academic and research programs of the health sciences colleges, including the planning, administration, and operations of the health sciences colleges and all other educational and research institutes, centers, and programs. The UTH board shall lend its best efforts to assure that the programs of the health sciences colleges are effectively supported in collaboration with the health system's patient care programs.
